

FREE Report: Article Marketing

If you take time to reply to a blog post, an email, or write an ad, you can write an article and get tons of “backlinks” to your web site and increase your sales.

If you're spending money on ads in print media, or buying books and magazine subscriptions to real estate related materials, then you're investing a lot of money into something that can potentially bring in some revenue.

But, are you investing in a wider scope, such as article marketing on the Internet? Where do you submit your articles? These following tools will help you to not only write your articles, but also give you the directories of ezines where you can publish them on the Internet... many of them with one click of the mouse!

Get quality links through article directory submission!

Search engine optimization is getting more and more difficult by the day. The search engines are evolving at an incredible speed, making it harder for you to rank your websites highly through SEO (Search Engine Optimization).

With that said, there are a few tried and true principles that you need to do when optimizing your website. The first of which is getting quality, 1 way links pointing to your website. The more quality links you can get pointing to your website, the higher you will rank, PERIOD.

While there are many “black hat” tricks and tactics that you can do for short term gain, I don't suggest doing it because it will get your sites banned on practically all the search engines. Besides, it would be a big waste of time and resources fooling around with those things. You need to focus your efforts on getting other websites to link to yours without you linking back to them. That is the biggest key to ranking well in Google, Yahoo, and MSN.

How Do You Do That?

Doing this is easier said than done. One of the easiest known ways to get quality, one way links is by finding website directories and then submitting your website to them. This can be a very tedious and time-consuming process, but always a very rewarding process at the same time.

Or you can submit your articles to these directories manually, or pay someone to do it for you. Or... you can use one of the article directory submission programs out there. The best program for the money that we've found is a program called "Article Submitter" created by Internet marketing expert, Brad Callen.

This program allows you to submit your articles to over 700 article directories and can save you an incredible amount of time in doing so. You simply enter your article details into the software once, and then select the directory you would like to submit to. The software will then, automatically fill in all of the submission criteria for each directory and allow you to quickly submit your articles.

Not only does this save you time in submitting your articles, but it saves you an incredible amount of time in just finding these free directories online. I highly suggest grabbing an article submission program if you decide to take advantage of one of the easiest ways to get quality, 1 way links to your website.
